

COMPROMISE MAY AVERT RAIL STRIKE

GREEDY PEACE
NOT U. S. AIM,
BYRNES SAYSSECRETARY POINTS
WORDS STRAIGHT
AT RUSSIA

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, May 20 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes, aiming his words straight at Russia, declared tonight that no one of the great powers has a right to veto the making of peace in Europe.

He said that if a general peace conference is not called this summer, the United States will appeal to the United Nations assembly to make peace recommendations.

In a fighting speech in which he repeatedly expressed confidence that peace, though difficult, can be built, Byrnes declared that the United States at the Paris foreign ministers conference started an "offensive for peace" and will not halt the drive until it wins its objective—"not a peace founded upon vengeance or greed, but a just peace, the only peace that can endure."

"There is no iron curtain that the aggregate sentiments of mankind cannot penetrate," he said in a report on the Paris conference prepared for broadcast to the nation.

Results Disappointing

He declared that the results of his negotiations with Foreign Ministers Molotov of Russia, Blizniak of France and Devin of Britain at Paris had been disappointingly small in comparison with what might have been accomplished. But he said they exceeded his expectations at the time he suggested this spring that the council convene. At that time the great powers appeared "hopelessly deadlocked."

To discussion of problems still in disagreement, Byrnes stressed especially his determination to put through his proposal for a 25-year German control treaty. His insistence on the prompt withdrawal of Allied armies from Austria, and his demand that a peace conference of all the nations which helped win the European war, be called either July 1 or July 15.

The purpose of the conference would be to make treaties with Italy, the Balkan States and Finland. The foreign ministers failed to agree on any major issue of those treaties, but Byrnes said he believes that if a solution agreeable to the western powers and Russia could be formed on the problem of Trieste, then other problems would be solved quite readily.

"If we cannot have a peace conference until the four nations agree on every subject deemed fundamental by any one of them, that will give to one member of the council the power to stop all efforts toward peace," Byrnes said.

War Is Alternative

Byrnes warned the nation against feeling that it may be too difficult to cooperate in restoring Europe and deciding to retire into "our own hemisphere."

"We must not forget," he said, "that if we fail to cooperate in a peace which is indivisible, we may again find that we will have to cooperate in a war which is world-wide."

Byrnes returned Saturday from the Paris meeting, accompanied by his Capitol Hill advisers, Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate foreign relations committee and Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, a leading Republican spokesman on foreign affairs.

Vandenberg, who had been expected to make his own full scale report on the conference in the Senate tomorrow, indicated today that he would make only a brief statement on the floor at that time. He did not foreclose the possibility.

Iranian Army
Goes To War
In Azerbaijan

London, May 20 (AP)—A broadcast from Tabriz, capital of Separatist Azerbaijan province, declared tonight that Iranian government troops had mounted a new, heavy attack on Azerbaijan forces near the Kurdistan-Azerbaijan border.

Government troops used mortars and artillery in the new assault, the radio said, opening the attack at 10 a. m. (12:30 a. m. EST) on Sainkaleh (Shahindaj), 100 miles south of Tabriz.

Earlier an Iranian war ministry spokesman confirmed that some clashes had occurred in the border area, but said they were minor. Tabriz dispatches quoted Separatist Premier Jafar Pishvari as saying "our country is on a war footing."

The Exchange Telegraph Agency quoted the Tabriz radio as saying the fierce fighting continued late into the evening, and that government troops shelled Azerbaijan positions but were repelled by "Azerbaijani patriots."

U. S. Consul In Danger

The statement of the war ministry spokesman in Tehran that "some small clashes" of "no real importance" had broken out was the first official indication from the Iranian capital that fighting had erupted along the Azerbaijan border. Tabriz radio last night announced that the government troops had attacked from Kurdistan.

The Iranian government has ordered an investigation of last night's Tabriz radio report, a Reuters dispatch from Tehran said.

Associated Press Correspondent Joseph C. Woodwin, reporting from Tabriz, capital of Azerbaijan, said that Robert Russell, Jr., the U. S. consul there, considered that his own personal safety had been threatened by a denial from Pishvari of a request for a travel permit.

The consul declared that the Iranian had warned him that "any incident which might occur should I travel would be my own responsibility." The consul said he is "again warning the American colony here to leave the district."

There have been reports of Azerbaijan soldiers wearing Russian uniforms, but none of any direct Russian assistance to the province.

PRICES ON CARS
GOING UP AGAINPreparations For Boost
Made By OPA As CIO
Files Protest

Washington, May 20 (AP)—OPA today prepared to boost new car prices again, even as the CIO United Auto Workers announced that the union has filed a formal protest against previous increases.

A high OPA official who asked the public pay for cars will be increased an average of four to five percent within ten days to offset higher costs of steel, other materials and parts.

Meanwhile, OPA announced an average increase of four to five percent in retail ceiling prices for toasters, warming pads, space heaters and other small electrical appliances. It results from increases in the cost of labor and materials.

Retail auto prices were hiked $1 to $60 a car in March and April to compensate for wage increases in the industry early this year.

In Detroit, the UAW-CIO said Walter P. Reuther, president of the union, had asked OPA Administrator Paul A. Porter to create a board to hear UAW contentions that auto industry costs did not necessitate higher car prices.

The union complaint said price hikes granted because of wage increases will add $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 a year to the cost of cars to motorists. The protest said that was in addition to $500,000,000 which the union claimed was added to the consumer costs when price ceilings for new models were first set.

OPA officials said the imminent additional increase in auto prices is required under terms of the administration's liberalized wage-price policy.

Firemen Overcome
In Lansing Blaze

Lansing, Mich., May 20 (AP)—Nine Lansing firemen were overcome tonight in fighting a blaze in a small grocery. All were revived at local hospitals but were kept under observation.

Fire department officials said the flames apparently burst out of a refrigerating unit, releasing gas. Among those overcome was Assistant Fire Chief Charles Decker.

DETROIT'S FOOD
SUPPLIES SHORTStores Feel Pinch In Bread And Meat, Sell
Heavy In Poultry

Detroit, May 20 (AP)—Supplies of meat and bread for Detroiters fell off markedly today.

On an unofficial survey of meat markets showed that markets which usually receive 300 sides of beef on a Monday morning received only 64 sides. Slaughterers were reported preparing to ask for higher OPA quotas in an effort to increase supplies.

Bakeries, however, predicted that a bread shortage which has hit Detroit will last until the end of July.

Faced with little selection in fresh meats, Detroiters were making heavy demands for poultry and fish. One market said its sale of turkeys Saturday exceeded even Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Benjamin V. Unwin, secretary-manager of the Detroit Independent Meat Packers' association, said "The wonder is that many of these packers are able to keep going at all."

Many Detroit grocery stores were sold out of bread at noon and a few received no supply at all. Bakeries explained they have been forced to reduce their output because the cut in flour supplies because they have been unable to obtain their full quotas from the mills.

"We are reduced to about 66 percent," a bakery official said. "We now are working on our reserves." One bakery cut off routes rather than cut down on the quantity delivered to stores.

Even had flour shipments remained at 100 per cent of 1945 milling figures, there still would have been a considerable lack of bread, a bakery source said. He said the increased 1946 demand for bread over last year was "tremendous."

Canadians Criticized
For Not Doing Much
To Aid Famine Areas

Hamilton, Ont., May 20 (AP)—M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation, said in an address tonight that Canadians were "still not doing as much as we could" in exporting food to world areas where millions face starvation even though "in comparison with the United States our record perhaps stands in shining contrast."

"Our per capita exports are about seven times as great, yet this is no criterion," said Coldwell. "In fact, the continued failure of the United States to meet promised commitments is an additional reason why we must increase our efforts to those dependent upon us abroad."

NEW CABINET
SELECTED BY
JAP PREMIERCOALITION GROUP
PICKED TO RULE
HUNGRY NIPPON

Tokyo, May 20 (AP)—Premier Shigeru Yoshida tonight named a coalition cabinet dominated by Conservatives to govern hungry Japan.

Immediately doubts arose whether Yoshida would be able to gain approval for all members of his proposed government. It was expected he would formally present the slate to the emperor Tuesday morning.

Prof. Hiroshi Nasu, nominated to be minister of agriculture, appeared to be the stumbling block. He has a "conspicuous" record of war activity, Japanese pointed out, and it was considered doubtful if Allied headquarters would accept him.

One of Nasu's wartime activities was reportedly a directorship in Japan's so-called totalitarian party, the Imperial Rule Assistance Association. He is listed as a Non-Partisan.

The cabinet as proposed is made up of six Liberals and four Progressives (Conservatives) and five Non-Partisans. Yoshida himself, president of the Liberal party, would hold the portfolios of premier, foreign minister, and first and second minister of demobilization.

Other nominees were announced as:

Home minister, Seichi Omura, Non-Partisan.

Finance, Tanzan Ishibashi, Liberal.

Justice, Chujo Iwata, Non-Partisan.

Education, Kotaro Tanaka, Non-Partisan.

Welfare and communications, Yoshishige Kawai, Progressive.

Agriculture, Hiroshi Nasu, Non-Partisan.

Commerce, Jiro Hoshijima, Liberal.

Transport, Tsunejiro Hiratsuka, Liberal.

State ministers (ministers without portfolio), Kijuro Shidehara, Takao Saito, and Sadakichi Hito-samatsu, Progressives; and Sujiro Uehara, Liberal.

Chief cabinet secretary, Joji Hayashi, Liberal.

Director of the legislation board, Toshiro Irie, Non-Partisan.

Veteran, 20, Held

Monroe, Mich., May 20 (AP)—Russell Sharp, 20, accused of putting poison in food for his two-week-old daughter last Jan. 27, pleaded innocent before Circuit Judge Clayton C. Golden today to a charge of attempted murder.

A sanity commission ruled that sharp, a discharged veteran, was mentally ill at the time of the alleged offense, but since has recovered. He is held under $750 bond pending trial at the June term of court.

Plane Crashes Into
Bank Of Manhattan
Building; Five Dead

New York, May 20 (AP)—An Army airplane, speeding through fog and a visibility of 400 feet, crashed into the 58th floor of the 72-story Bank of the Manhattan Company building in Wall Street tonight, killing the plane's five occupants.

The dead were identified by the police department as: First Lt. Mary E. Bond, Wac; Maj. Marshall Campbell; First Lt. R. W. Stephenson; Second Lt. Angelo Rossi; Capt. Thomas Hall. Addresses were not immediately available.

Police said the name of Capt. J. M. Collison had been inscribed on the fuselage of the plane, leading to their erroneous report that he was aboard.

Army officials informed police that the plane had left the Army Air Base at Smyrna, Tenn., bound for Newark, N. J., airport and had five persons aboard.

The plane, identified as a two-engine C-45, an all-metal low wing monoplane frequently used as a staff ship for high army personnel, tore a 15 foot square hole in the brick wall of the building. The building fronts on 40 Wall

Seizure Last Hope
To Keep Soft Coal
Mines In Operation

BY HAROLD W. LARD

Washington, May 20 (AP)—Government officials appeared convinced today that federal seizure provides the last hope of keeping the coal mines operating after Saturday, but they lacked assurance from John L. Lewis that the miners would stay on the job.

Both Lewis and Charles O'Neill, chief spokesman for the operators, have emphasized to President Truman the futility of further negotiations, say officials who cannot be named.

One top government man concerned with labor indicated that he believed seizure was coming but said an exact date was not yet decided. Another agreed he could see no other alternative open to the government which could keep the mines open after the present two week truce expires Saturday night.

Lewis, at a conference with President Truman Sunday, was reported to have informed the president he lacked authority, without word from his policy committee, to commit the miners to work for the government.

Fuel Prices Going Up? If Lewis and his policy committee agree to work for the government the federal officials probably will have to negotiate the next contract with Lewis, as former Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes did as solid fuels administrator.

Operators feel, it was reported by a government official, that they may have a better chance of getting price relief for whatever concessions eventually are made to Lewis, if the government negotiates the contract.

Some operators estimate that Lewis' plan for a management-financed union health and welfare fund, together with his wage demands when he finally outlines them, might add 50 cents to the labor cost of a ton of coal.

Since the railroad crisis figures in timing of government seizure of the mines—if indeed that is decided upon—the date may be delayed until Thursday or Friday, to await the outcome of the rail dispute.

The strike of railroad trainmen and engineers was postponed until 4 p. m. Thursday, local standard time in all time zones.

SPRINGS CAUSE
NEW CAR TIEUPMore Auto Shutdowns
Expected As Vital
Materials Run Out

BY DAVID J. WILKIE

Associated Press Automotive Editor

Detroit, May 20 (AP)—A shortage of seat back and cushion springs threatens to halt assembly operations throughout most of the nation's automobile industry—possibly within the current week.

As the week began Ford was closed "indefinitely." Halted at least temporarily were the final assembly lines at Buick, Pontiac and Oldsmobile divisions of General Motors and Willys-Overland.

Other producers, struggling with recurring materials shortages, were limping along at considerably less than half capacity and watching their stockpiles dwindle with no assurance of replacement.

Another sharp slump in output this week appeared certain, with total volume of cars and trucks probably not exceeding 40,000 units. Last week's output of plants in the United States was 45,659 vehicles, according to the trade publication Automotive News. The factories reached their postwar high in the week ending May 12, with an estimated 65,725 cars and trucks.

Automotive News placed total output since V-E Day at 776,705 units. In normal times this would be about six weeks top level production.

The shortage of cushion springs, according to industry spokesmen, is one of the most critical in the industry has faced since it got back into peacetime car production last summer. It stems partly from plant troubles in the supplier plant and partly from a limitation on deliveries of hard-drawn, high-carbon steel.

One Person Killed,
22 Injured: Tornado
Hits North Carolina

Kinston, N. C., May 20 (AP)—One person was killed and at least 22 injured by a tornado that struck two widely separated sections of Kinston and surrounding farmland tonight.

The tornado, coming on the heels of a hard thunderstorm, was reported by Kinston police to have completely flattened two filling stations within the city limits.

PIG CROP CUT

Lansing, May 20 (AP)—Michigan's 1946 fall pig crop goal is 650,000, says the state agricultural adjustment agency announced today, compared with 703,000 last year. Maurice A. Doan, state AAA chairman, attributed the reduction this year to "the present tight feed situation."

HOOVER URGES
NEW FOOD BOSSWeeks Before Grain Is Harvested To Be Critical Period

Washington, May 20 (AP)—Herbert Hoover today recommended a new United Nations food administrator, with a single mandate to take the world's food business out of governmental hands and into normal commercial channels as swiftly as possible.

Calling for "drastic reorganization" in international efforts to fight hunger, he said:

"Commerce will secure more economical distribution. It will serve with far more assurance and efficiency to farmers, merchants and consumers than governments."

Hoover delivered the recommendation to the opening session of a food conference under the auspices of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

President Truman, in a message to the conference, said that the remaining weeks before the 1946 grain harvest will be especially critical and that all nations "must continue and heighten their efforts." He added that livestock deficits will continue for a long time.

The president's message was read by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, who was named permanent chairman.

Renovating Planned
At Peninsula Fair
Site In Escanaba

Lansing, May 20 (AP)—The Upper Peninsula State Fair Board of Managers has asked the State Budget Bureau for permission to spend $10,000 renovating the fair grounds at Escanaba for a 1946 exposition.

Improvements planned include a model milking house, re-decoration of the exhibition building and a new platform on the stage in front of the grand stand, Secretary H. P. Lindsay said.

Fred C. Striffler, state budget director, said the request was under consideration.

The last Upper Peninsula State Fair was held in 1941.

Heart Attack Fatal
To Houghton Tech's
Athletic Director

Houghton, Mich., May 20 (AP)—Donald P. Sherman, 43, athletic director of Michigan College of Mining and Technology here, died unexpectedly tonight in his home of a heart attack.

First appointed assistant director in 1936, he was promoted to athletic director in 1936. He was a native of Battle Creek and graduated from high school there in 1922. He attended Walsh college, Crawfordsville, Ind., and graduated in 1926.

Survivors include his widow, Janet, and two daughters. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Crusader Horrified
By Women Drinking
Vodka In Tea Cups

New York, May 20 (AP)—Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, said today women, children and grandmothers are patronizing bars and even drinking "an imported horror named vodka."

"Thirty years ago," she told the New York chapter of the organization, "bars were patronized mostly by men. Now, we even have lovely young ladies drinking the most vicious of all alcoholic drinks—an imported horror named vodka—out of tea cups."

OUTLOOK GOOD FOR SETTLING
WAGE DISPUTENEW PROPOSITION
SUBMITTED BY TRAINMEN

Washington, May 20 (AP)—Hope for a compromise that would avert a nation-wide railroad tie-up rose tonight as A. F. Whitney, president of the Trainmen's Brotherhood, presented a new "proposition" and other rail labor sources said prospects of a settlement "look good."

Whitney told reporters he made his proposition to government conciliators seeking to settle the wage dispute before a five-day truce expires Thursday. The conciliators, including John R. Steelman, presidential adviser, kept busy in separate negotiations with union and carrier representatives.

Steelman met with Whitney and Alvaney Johnston, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, for more than an hour at midday. He was reported talking with the carriers' negotiating committee during the afternoon, and presumably the union "proposition" was taken up then with the carriers.

Service Again Normal At Cleveland, another person familiar with labor matters but who declined to permit use of his name said:

"Things look good in Washington."

He said a settlement by late Wednesday appeared possible.

The White House said Steelman was hopeful.

Steelman was trying to work out some compromise before asking both sides to resume joint negotiations. The unions have booted down their demands to an 18 per cent increase, with a $1.41 per day minimum boost, while the railroads were willing to go only as high as $1.28 or 16 cents an hour as had been recommended by a presidential fact-finding committee.

Johnston and Whitney had nothing more direct to say on a statement by Thomas J. Harkins, assistant grand chief engineer of the Engineers' Brotherhood, that he expected a settlement that would prevent a walkout on the new date.

Meantime, rail service settled back to normal. It had been temporarily disrupted over the weekend in many areas because a union agreement, at Mr. Truman's request, to postpone the strike for five days came only minutes before the deadline for the walkout. Many workers failed to get word of the postponement in time.

Adjustable Coal
Bills Authorized

Washington, May 20 (AP)—OPA today broadened its adjustable pricing order on soft coal by making it applicable to retail sales of five tons or less and to all retail sales of coke.

Under the order, the dealer may open-bill their customers, collect present maximum prices, and arrange to charge retroactively to today any price increase OPA allows later to offset miners' wage increases resulting from current contract negotiations.

The broader order also applies to all sales of briquets and packaged fuel made from bituminous coal.

PLAN MEMORIAL DAY SERVICES

Program At Ludington Park Will Follow Parade

Veterans of World War II, Gold Star mothers, members of the American Legion, Spanish American War Veterans, Disabled War Veterans and Veterans of Foreign Wars will all take part in the first peace time Memorial Day program to be held here in four years.

Elmer Swanson is general chairman of the committee on arrangements for the program. He is assisted by William Miron, Phil Bruce, Elmer St. Martin and Roy Baldwin.

Members of the American Legion, Cloverland Post No. 82, will make up the firing squad, under the direction of William Perron, post commander, which will fire a volley over the graves of departed veterans at St. Joseph's, Lakeview and Gardens of Rest cemeteries.

The Memorial Day parade will form at the junior high school and will proceed to Ludington park where the remainder of the services by the veterans' organizations will take place.

The program at the city park will be under the direction of Archie Wood. Details will be announced later.

Long Soo Walkout Ends In Settlement Of Wage Increase

Lansing, May 20 (AP)—Agreement on an average 19 cent on hour wage increase today terminated a six-week old strike by United Mine Workers District Local 12413 at two Sault Ste. Marie factories.

Employees of the Northern Power Company and the Union Carbide Division of the Union Carbide and Carbon Corp. agreed to return to work after contracts were signed at 2 a. m. this morning.

Carlisle A. Gray, State Labor Mediation Board executive secretary, said the one-year agreements provided the pay raise and a union maintenance of membership clause with a 15-day "escape" period within which members may resign from the organization.

He said a special mediation commission consisting of James Greenfield, state conciliator, Rev. J. Elmer Dahlgren and Fred S. Case, both of Sault Ste. Marie, brought the two sides together.

Pinned By Window, Burned To Death

Spokane, Wash., May 20 (AP)—A man, pinned beneath a window, burned to death tonight in an apartment house fire as hundreds of spectators looked on.

Sidewalk crowds in downtown Spokane shouted to him to jump from the second story as his clothes caught fire. The window fell and pinned him to the sill as he was attempting to climb out.

A fireman equipped with a gas mask climbed a ladder to the window and released the man. The body slipped from his grasp and fell to the pavement.

The man was identified by police as James Edward Hutton, 46, Spokane. Three other persons were injured in the fire.

Nationalized Mines Voted In Britain

London, May 20 (AP)—The House of Commons passed tonight by a vote of 324 to 143 a labor government bill to nationalize Britain's coal mines.

Before the vote was taken Fuel Minister Emanuel Shinwell said: "We may have to embark on even more drastic schemes of reorganization and rationalization—if not nationalization—so that we can retain our place in the industrial race."

The bill now awaits approval by the House of Lords and royal assent.

Nude Typist Killed In Fall From Room Of Army Captain

Frankfurt, May 20 (AP)—The U. S. provost marshal's office announced today that a 38-year-old war department typist was fatally injured last night in what "appears to have been a purely accidental" fall from the second floor of an American army captain's apartment.

The marshal, Lt. Col. Redmond J. Connolly of New York, identified the woman as Miss Dorothy Knapp of Port Richmond, Staten Island, N. Y. He said she died in the 97th general hospital 12 hours after she was found, nude and unconscious, by a German charwoman in the back yard of the headquarters compound apartment.

The officer who occupied the apartment was ordered restricted to quarters, but was not arrested. His name was withheld.

The dark-haired typist arrived here only six days ago from the United States. Connolly said she and the captain "came home to the captain's apartment, which he shared with an American male civilian, about 2 a. m. Sunday."

Experts Of Former German Army Hired To Teach Russians

Berlin, May 20 (AP)—Reliable American and German informants who declined to be named said today the Russians have been engaging certain expert army, navy and air force men of the former German armed forces for service as instructors for the Red army and navy.

Russian authorities here would not comment on these reports, some of which came from deep in the Russian zone of occupation.

An American officer who reported this Russian use of German personnel—also presumably disclosed, and his source observed that "German stuff is not hard to sign up."

"Why, I can show you lots of applications from Germans wanting to join the American army," he added.

ty, however, that he might deliver a major address on the subject later, when pending labor legislation before the Senate is disposed of.

At one point he said that security is the concern of all nations but that "the effort of one nation to increase its security may threaten the security of other nations and cause them in turn to try to increase their own security."

Patience Required

He also announced that he would renew at the next session of the foreign ministers June 15 the plan he put forward in Paris for appointment of special deputy foreign ministers to draw up a German peace settlement. Russia has turned that down for the time being.

He described the building of "a people's peace" as a long hard process which cannot be carried out "by flashing diplomatic triumphs."

"It requires patience and firmness, tolerance and understanding," he said. "We must not try to impose our will on others, but we must make sure that others do not get the impression they can impose their will on us."

Byrnes met at Paris with Foreign Ministers Molotov of Russia, Bevin of Britain and Bidault of France. He said that while they differed on many fundamental points they did get to know "what those fundamental points were and the varying weight the different ministers attached to those points."

Byrnes reviewed his four differences over a peace settlement with Italy, reported prospective compromises on reparations and colonial dispositions, and declared that he believed those and other questions would soon be solved "if only a solution of the Trieste problem could be found."

He made it clear that on that territorial issue, in which Russia backs Yugoslavia and the western powers back Italy, there is no compromise or other agreement in sight.

"It was wrong to give Italy the whole of Venezia Giulia after World War One," he asserted. "It would be equally wrong to give Yugoslavia the whole of Venezia Giulia now. It would transfer from Italy to Yugoslavia approximately 500,000 Italians."

Sailor Hitchhikers Victims Of Crackup Near Memphis, Mich.

Memphis, Mich., May 20 (AP)—Officials at nearby Selfridge Field disclosed today that the two sailors killed along with three Army men in an Army plane crash near here Saturday were "hitch-hiking" to Philadelphia to rejoin their ship.

The sailors were identified by Selfridge officers as Seamen 2/C Robert Flores of Fresno, Cal., and Clayton D. Pearson of Evanston, Ill., whose ship, the USS Minneapolis, was in drydock.

A light twin-engine C-45, the plane was bound for Bolling Field, Washington, D. C., an accident inquiry board is investigating the crash. Previously announced casualties were Col. Reuben C. Moffatt of Falls Church, Va., Capt. Ernest D. Cott, of Washington and T/Gt. Harry L. Lidek of Coraopolis, Pa.

Mother Who Killed Daughter Acquitted

Washington, May 20 (AP)—It took a jury less than five minutes today to acquit a 52-year-old housewife of murder in the fatal shooting of her 17-year-old unmarried, pregnant daughter last Feb. 2.

The defendant, Mrs. Maude O. Summers, was accused of killing the daughter, Annie, after discovering that the girl expected a child. Two psychiatrists testified they were convinced Mrs. Summers did not know right from wrong at the time.

Nazi U-Boat Pens At Bremen Blasted To Test Out Bombs

Wiesbaden, Germany, May 20 (AP)—B-29 Superfortresses, which never flew in combat are being used with B-17 Flying Fortresses and RAF Lancasters in what is described as the largest experimental air bombardment in Europe since the war's end, an official announcement said today.

The attacks are being carried out with British-developed 22,000-pound bombs and other British bombs, and American 4,500-pound "rocket assisted" armor piercing bombs, with the $50,000-600 German submarine pens near Bremen as the target. The U. S. Air Force headquarters statement said the experiment was designed to determine "the full possibilities of destroying massive targets by earth shock."

"The end of the war came before all the implications of the bomb versus concrete were resolved," the statement said, "and additional facts were required if the benefit of the immense amount of work which had been put into the bombs was to be gained."

Song Writer Killed By Train; Throws Himself On Tracks

Pontiac, Mich., May 20 (AP)—The death of William Royce, popular song writer shortly before and after the turn of the century, officially was pronounced a suicide today by Coroner Leon F. Cobb.

Cobb said an investigation showed that Royce, who under the name of James Royce Shannon composed nearly 600 songs, threw himself in front of a Grand Trunk freight train here Sunday night.

Royce broke into prominence at the Chicago World's Fair in 1893 when he worked with Ziegfeld on the midway plaisance. In 1912 he wrote the music for Chauncey Olcott's hit "Shameen Dhu," which included the song, "An Irish Lullaby." Two years later he composed the lyrics for "The Missouri Waltz," a favorite for years.

Living alone at a hotel here for the past two years, Royce devoted much of his time to "doctoring" songs of other composers which had fallen short of expectations.

Funeral arrangements were held up pending the arrival from New York of his daughter, Miss Dael Royce. Authorities are attempting to locate other relatives.

Briefly Told

Royal Arch Masons—At a meeting on Saturday evening, the Royal Arch degree was conferred upon a class of candidates, with A. Fritz Wallin of Marquette performing the principal part of the degree work. The meeting was also a going-away party honoring Stanley T. Fauli, who will leave Escanaba on June 1 to take up new duties in Dearborn. The chapter presented Mr. Fauli with a brief case, and Mrs. Fauli received a bouquet of red roses. Mrs. Dalip Rehnquist, who had charge of the dinner, also received a bouquet of roses, it being the occasion of her birthday anniversary. Work in the Mark Master degree will be given on Thursday night, followed by a luncheon, it was announced by Henry E. Hathaway.

FIRE DANGER IS ENDED BY RAINS

75 Fires Blacken 1,068 Acres In District This Spring

Rains which started over the weekend and continued through yesterday ended the spring forest fire hazard in the Delta-Marquette-Alger conservation district, at least for a time, John Angullm, district supervisors, said yesterday.

The burning of brush in land clearing can now be done with relative safety and permits will be issued upon application, Angullm added. Because of the high fire hazard in recent weeks it has been necessary to withhold approval until conditions changed.

So far this year there have been 75 fires in the district which burned over a total of 1,068 acres. The largest forest fire was near Republic May 14, which burned over 350 acres. It was started by exhaust from a tractor.

Since the trout season opened April 27 there have been about 30 forest fires in the district, and of this number only two were definitely known to have been started by trout fishermen, Angullm reported. This is considered an excellent record and fishermen generally cooperated in efforts to prevent forest fires, he said.

The conservation department reported that in this state as a whole to the middle of May, 757 fires had burned over 9,856 acres in territory covered by the state fire fighters. Cold weather combined with exceptional drouth to retard new growth of vegetation, extending the spring fire hazard period beyond its usual duration.

News From Men In The Service

Okinawa — Raymond Robitaille, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Robitaille of 213 Stephenson Avenue, Escanaba, Michigan, has been promoted to sergeant it was announced by Headquarters 346th Bombardment Group V, which is a B-29 (Superfortress) unit of the famed Eighth Air Force located at this advanced base.

Sgt. Robitaille was graduated from Escanaba High and worked as a driver prior to his entering the service.

Ensign John C. LaFave, USNR, son of C. A. LaFave, 1225 Minnesota Avenue, Gladstone, has been reported for duty with Air Ferry Squadron Three, a part of the Naval Air Transport Service Command, based at the Naval Air Station, San Pedro, Calif.

A graduate of Gladstone High school, Ensign LaFave attended Michigan College of Mining and Technology before joining the Navy in 1943.

Arraign War Bride And Brother-In-Law On Behavior Count

Kenosha, Wis.—Mrs. Sarah Ellen Clark, 6410 Tenth avenue, and Julius Clark, same address, were charged with lewd and lascivious behavior and were arraigned in county court yesterday morning.

Both were arrested at 9 p. m. Friday by Detectives Frank McCluskey and Amos Vollbracht. Detectives said both admitted living together at 6110 Tenth avenue and at 6034 Tenth avenue. Clark is Mrs. Clark's brother-in-law. Mrs. Clark is a British war bride.

Mrs. Clark is the wife of Rudolph Clark of Nahma, who arrived in this country from England on March 2. They were married in London on July 11, 1945, while Cpl. Clark was serving overseas.

The Escanaba Rotary club at its meeting yesterday noon in the Delta hotel enjoyed a program of songs presented by St. Joseph's high school glee club, directed by Sister Sedalia.

Opening its program with Mozart's inspiring "Alleluia," the glee club sang two other numbers in the first group—the tuneful "Waltz Song" and the lilting "Kerry Dance."

Miss Patricia Ammel, member of the glee club, sang Victor Herbert's ever-popular "When You're Away," followed by "Road to Home" and "Because."

In its second group of songs the glee club presented "Hymn of Love" from Dvorak's "New World Symphony"; and "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers", and closed with "Michigan My Michigan."

A quartet of Escanaba High school students appeared briefly to sing two numbers in connection with a special club program feature arranged for Rotarian O. V. Thatcher.

Miners Win Strike

THE break in the deadlock that has stymied iron ore production in the Upper Peninsula has developed and the full resumption of production is anticipated shortly. The iron mine strike, covering a period of more than 100 days, has been one of the most costly labor disputes ever experienced in the Upper Peninsula.

The Ogleby Norton company brought the first break in the strike deadlock by acceding to the miners' demands for an 10 1/2 cents per hour increase. The M. A. Hanna company and the North Range Mining company followed suit. The Cleveland Cliffs iron company, largest iron producer on the Marquette range, was scheduled to resume negotiations with the union yesterday, with prospects for settlement very encouraging.

The effect of the iron ore strike has been keenly felt throughout the Upper Peninsula and has been reflected in a sharp drop of business activity. Not a single cargo of ore has moved over the docks at either Marquette or Escanaba this spring.

Encouragement is indicated in the fact that the new contracts signed by the mining companies and the Steelworkers Union provide for a six-day week for the remainder of the 1946 shipping season. In addition miners will pass up their usual vacations to catch up as far as possible on the production that has been lost through the costly strike. Miners electing to remain on the job will receive vacation pay in addition to regular earned wages.

Closely allied with the iron mine strike is the strike at the Inland Lime and Stone company plant at Manistiquia. Whether quick settlement of that strike will follow on the heels of the settlement of the iron mine dispute is uncertain but at least there is ample cause for optimism.

A Week of Crisis

NEGOTIATIONS this week in the coal mine and railroad labor disputes will determine whether the nation, plagued by an epidemic of strikes that has kept post-war production to a shadow of its potentiality, will finally break loose toward an era of prosperity, or will sink further into an abyss of discord and economic ruin.

The two labor disputes together constitute the greatest single challenge that the American economic system has faced in its history. The settlement of one without the settlement of the other would be meaningless, viewed in the broad outlook for American prosperity.

The situation in the country today concerning coal and power is bleak, indeed. But even if the coal miners and the operators resolve their differences and reach an agreement in the few days remaining of their truce, the hope for normal resumption of production cannot exist if the railroads are tied up. Economic life in the United States will be strangled just as surely by a transportation impasse as by lack of power and fuel through a refusal of miners to produce coal.

The issues in the two labor disputes are by no means identical. The mine workers union will not even discuss wage demands until the matter of a health and welfare fund of 50 to 70 million dollars, to be administered by the union, is settled. The railroad brotherhoods, on the other hand, are striking primarily for wage increases for their members.

The coal mine dispute is obviously the more difficult of the two because the demand of the UMW union is unreasonable and arbitrary. It is not likely that coal operators will yield to a demand of this kind, unless they are bludgeoned into it by governmental pressure. In view of the unsavory effect that a 70 million slush fund controlled entirely by the union would have on the public interest, it hardly seems likely that the administration would dare to force this condition down the throats of American business.

Traffic Carelessness

AUTOMOBILE carelessness still takes a tremendous toll of human life and causes vast misery to thousands of Americans annually, despite all of the safety campaigns that have been conducted through the years.

In the war year of 1945, a total of 28,500 Americans were killed in traffic accidents. The toll is almost certain to rise this year because the war controls on motoring have been removed. Automobiles are a year older and they are not being replaced in normal volume. The result is there are many automobiles operating on the highway that are abnormally dangerous. Thousands of high-speed automobiles are operating on tread-worn tires and casings that have been badly checked through weather-beaten years.

As the summer season approaches, the traffic death toll is mounting sharply. Twenty-two people died in Michigan alone last week as a result of traffic accidents.

Motorists can reduce this terrible toll. Cars should be checked over carefully now to determine the effectiveness of the brakes, the condition of the tires, the operation of windshield wipers and horns. Such checks are being made this week by police officials of the state. All of this is still not enough, however. Even more important is the exercise of care and caution by the drivers on the highway. The most perfect car mechanically is an instrument of death in the hands of a careless motorist.

War-Born Drugs

MUCH has been written about the war-born drugs, particularly penicillin and streptomycin, with the result that the American people are quite familiar with remarkable results that have been achieved from these new medical discoveries. The United States food and drug administration warns, however, that considerable knowledge has yet to be learned about these drugs and their effect in the treatment of certain infections.

In research tests upon mice, for instance, it has been discovered that certain doses of streptomycin actually increase rather than decrease deaths from infection. Preliminary studies suggest the possibility of the same effect with penicillin.

Research in the use of the new drugs, however, has proved conclusively that penicillin and streptomycin offer great possibilities in the continual fight against infectious disease when properly used.

The danger lies in the fact that the public may accept these drugs as cure-alls, which they most certainly are not.

MICHIGAN "GOLD."

(Grand Rapids Press)

Michigan generally isn't regarded as one of the more important mineral producing states, although its copper and iron deposits have figured prominently in the development of the national economy. Its iron production unquestionably gave impetus to the steel age and early in the century its copper proved a boon to the infant electrical industry. But according to Helen Martin, state conservation department geologist, the state still has a wealth of mineral resources which have yet to come into their own.

Among the more important minerals available in abundance in Michigan, Miss Martin lists brine, limestone, gypsum and salt. The last named is said to afford the basis for the midwestern chemical industry and the production of bleaches, soap, textiles and dyes. Brine is the source of many chemicals, including the one popularly known as aspirin. The state's limestone quarries, largest in the world, provide a potential source for magnesium and plastics. And gypsum, of course, is utilized in building, fireproofing and insulating, though it probably is not used as widely today as it will be in the future.

Almost without exception the uses to which these mineral resources can be put are new developments and therefore still largely unexplored. Plastics already are being used in making a variety of products from automobile and airplane parts to nylon, but still in relatively small quantities. Magnesium was given a big play in war production but has yet to be adapted as extensively to the making of consumer goods.

The war undoubtedly stimulated research in the use of our mineral resources, but it did not stop with the end of the war. On the strength of what industry has done in the past and the geologist's appraisal of our resources, there is good reason to predict that Michigan will assume a growing importance as a mineral-producing state. And, it might be added, the central location of the state and its diversified transportation facilities make it a logical source of supply for a large part of the nation.

"WOOND" OR "WOWND"?

Q. When a person has been wounded, does one speak of his "woond," to rhyme with "wooned," or "wound," to rhyme with "found"? My doctor says "woond."

A. The "woond" pronunciation is heard occasionally; but it has never prevailed in modern English. Noah Webster preferred "wound" in his original dictionary (1828), but most of his contemporaries pronounced it "woond." The rhyme with "found" was obsolescent even in Webster's day. We may regard it now as archaic.

Early in the last century, a certain professor, while in conversation with a woman of gentle birth, repeatedly used the "woond" pronunciation. "Why," she asked, "do you not call that word 'wound'?" Fixing her with a stern and learned eye, the pedagogue replied: "Because, madam, I have never found sufficient ground that it should have that sound!"

Nevertheless, if the professor had gone into the origin of the word, he would have found that the "woond" pronunciation is historically correct, for the original word was the Anglo-Saxon wund, which was pronounced with the "oo" sound. Wund

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington — In Paris a conference widely heralded has failed. In Washington a conference is about to begin that in its success—or failure—may have consequences more far-reaching than the foreign ministers' stalemate. As the Paris conference was about boundaries, about lines on a map, the Washington conference is about food, about the raw material of life itself.

The failure at Paris can be likened to a time bomb. The explosion will occur five, ten, fifteen years from now—unless, of course, in the meantime the politicians of the world agree on means to detonate that bomb. Failure at the Washington conference will mean an explosion next year—in starvation, breakdown, chaos.

That is why the decisions to be taken at the conference called by the international food and agriculture organization take on such tremendous meaning. Here is the background on the chief issue to be determined at the Washington meeting by delegates of the major powers.

—COMMISSION ADVOCATED—
Almost everyone agrees on the need for an international food commission with sweeping powers, to take over when UNRRA goes out of the picture at the end of this year. Such an organization is essential to carry the world through the next five years. At the end of five years, it is hoped the food level will be back to about what it was in 1939.

Herbert Hoover has returned from his trip to the famine areas of the earth convinced that such an organization is essential. He believes it should begin to take over not later than next September. Hoover's influence will be important in bringing such an organization into being.

The need for a commission with real powers has long been apparent to Sir John Boyd Orr, head of the food and agriculture organization, and to Fiorello La Guardia, the embattled director of UNRRA. The difference is likely to come over the extent of the authority which the new organization must have.

With his associates Hoover has talked in terms of permitting commercial interests to continue to handle, say, 70 per cent of the world's food trade, with 30 per cent being allocated to the international commission. This is wholly tentative. Hoover believes another food survey should be made in September, after the new harvest is in. When that survey is completed, it will be possible to tell how much power over export foods the new commission should have.

Orr makes no secret of his belief that international control should cover all food that goes into export trade. It can be sent through commercial channels, but firm authority must be exercised at the top. La Guardia is with him in this stand.

Here is the deadly peril they foresee unless agreement can be reached on such authority. Commodity speculators operating in a scarcity market will force an inflation such as the world has never known before. Prices of basic foods will skyrocket everywhere if speculators have a chance to compete in the market.

—A SELLERS' MARKET—
There are numerous signs that this speculation has already begun. It is not only here in this country. Shrewd traders everywhere are counting on a killing. For at least five years, it's bound to be a seller's market.

Reports circulated recently that British buyers had control of the Brazilian rice crop and were holding it for a shift in price. One of the reasons Herbert Morrison, second in command in Britain's labor government, came to this country was to make sure that his government's stringent orders on food were not being circumvented at lower levels.

Our own commodity speculators have helpful spokesmen in congress. Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma is one of them. Thomas works hard for the cotton boys who are trying to push the price of cotton through the roof.

In Europe, black market operators have built a network across the continent. They are working in many instances through former Fascists who see a chance to build up a new war chest in this way while at the same time undermining Europe's economy.

Those who have planned the Washington conference are not too hopeful. It is not certain that Britain will go along with international control. Russia, not even having replied to the invitation to send a delegate, is likely to be outside. Success—even partial success—would insure a breathing spell. It would give the politicians a chance to work on that time bomb again.

then became wunde (exactly like the German word for wound). In Middle English the letter "o" was introduced for some reason that is not now clear: wounde.

In time the final "e" disappeared, and the noun wound, "an injury," came to be spelled exactly like the past tense of the verb to wound. And it is likely that the resemblance of wound (injury) to the verb (he wound the clock) brought about the one-time current pronunciation "woond."

But, as I have already pointed out, the "woond" pronunciation is obsolete. It is not shown by Dorland's Medical Dictionary. Those standard dictionaries which mention the "woond" pronunciation describe it as "rare."

It would certainly strike the ear strangely to hear anyone speak of "woonded" American soldiers, sailors, or marines.

To settle that ancient argument as to the correctness of the Southern expression "you all," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Frank Colby, in care of this paper. Ask for YOU ALL pamphlet.

CITY PARKING — Escanaba, like many Upper Peninsula cities, has a parking problem on its main street. It was a problem that was considered acute before the war, lessened during the war, and will become still more troublesome in this postwar period.

And Escanaba, like many another Upper Peninsula community, is making an effort to find an answer to the problem. Police Chief M. F. Ettenhofer said the other day he didn't expect much parking trouble in the city as soon as motorists began to conform to the one-hour parking regulation. Right now it is a matter of educating them to not over-park, since the law was not enforced during the war when the volume of traffic was low.

So far there have been no prosecutions for overtime parking. Police place a ticket on the car, the motorists reports to the police station, is warned and released.

JUST ONE HOUR — The one-hour parking limitation applies on Ludington street only between the hours of 7 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Plans are being made to extend one-hour parking to the 100 blocks north and south of Ludington street on Ninth, 10th, 11th and 12th street, but this will not be done until signs can be obtained and erected. This may not be accomplished until late summer.

Enforcement of the one-hour parking ordinance should help shoppers and others in finding a place for their cars in the Ludington street business district. Cooperation with the law on the part of the motorist will be beneficial to the public as a whole.

PARKING LOTS — One public parking lot has been completed and two others are to be opened by the city. All three of these lots are near the shopping district.

The completed parking lot is at the rear of the city hall and will accommodate 40 cars. Admittedly this is not a large number, but if the lot were used to its full capacity it would take 40 cars off Ludington street. The lot is convenient and is easily gotten into and out of.

The two other public parking lots planned are on South Tenth street and Ludington, and in the 100 block on 12th street. These will hold a larger number of cars than the rather small lot at city hall.

More parking lots here and there along Ludington street may be the best answer to the parking problem. If there are enough of them it is not necessary that they be large. And what is most convenient about parking in such places is that a car may be left there more than one hour—which is important to shoppers from the country who must necessarily spend a considerable time downtown on their visits to the city.

COOPERATION — Escanaba business and professional men themselves can assist greatly in preventing some of the parking congestion on Ludington street by parking their cars on side streets during the day—even for one hour. Business houses in the crowded downtown section have largely made this a matter of policy for their employees.

ber of Commerce, and the city council, have frowned on proposals to install parking meters on Ludington street. They believe the parking problem can be licked by cooperative action rather than have the motorists feed pennies, nickels and dimes into a meter.

In this they are probably right—depending on the degree of co-operation. If the motorists themselves observe the one-hour parking limit, if the business men and their employees keep their cars on side streets, and if the city can provide a few additional parking lots near the shopping center, parking meters should not be necessary. If there is a breakdown in the cooperative program, however, the meters may rear their ugly heads all along main street.

OTHER PROBLEMS — Visiting motorists have observed that Escanaba car drivers are unique in the nation. The local folks drive their cars with little regard to safe driving practices, ignoring traffic lanes, signals, and pedestrians.

One of the visiting motorists, told that Escanaba has relatively few traffic accidents, shook his head in amazement. "They must be used to each other," he said.

In relationship to traffic law violations and parking, there is the bad habit of double parking in the downtown district as practiced by local drivers. This may be a symptom of the parking problem. If there were parking places, double parking would not occur.

And here and there along Ludington will be observed large trucks loading or unloading goods at local shop entrances, rather than from the alleys. Enforcement of traffic and parking laws by the police should be welcomed by the public—it means greater safety and convenience for all motorists.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DERW PEARSON

Washington.—The abortive Paris peace conference was one of the most secret ever held in a city steeped in the tradition of secret diplomacy. Armed guards even barred newsmen from the palace of Luxembourg where the conferees sat. Even more secret, however, was a dinner attended by Foreign Minister Molotov and Secretary of State Byrnes at which, over brandy and cigars, they did their best to unlock the conference deadlock.

It was shortly after this secret dinner failed that further conference sessions became hopeless and the foreign ministers finally decided to go home.

In inviting Byrnes to dinner, Molotov discreetly suggested that Senators Vandenberg of Michigan and Connally of Texas not be included. The intimation was that the two foreign ministers could better understand each other if these two senatorial thorns in the side of Soviet diplomacy were left in their hotel rooms.

The Secretary of State, therefore, arrived only with his trusted counselor, Ben Cohen, and his chief Russian interpreter, "Chip" Bohlen. Molotov, in turn, invited only two aides, the famous deputy foreign commissar Vyshinsky, who prosecuted the seven Soviet generals for treason, and the Kremlin's chief interpreter, Vladimir Pavlov.

Dinner was gay and charming. Jimmie Byrnes is delightful at light repartee, while Molotov, underneath his scowl, has a real sense of humor. Usually the Russians serve only Soviet products at their dinners, but this time they made a concession and included French wine.

—MOLOTOV OFFERS COMPROMISE—

After the cigars were passed, the two foreign ministers got down to hard-headed business. Molotov led by stating frankly that the Russians were worried about the conference stalemate and were prepared to make concessions if the United States were willing to meet them halfway.

Byrnes, falling back on his South Carolina caution, listened, then began to explore what concessions Molotov was prepared to make.

The first was a suggestion that Russia would yield on Italian colonies if the United States would yield on Trieste. Byrnes expressed interest but made no commitment. He asked for more details.

Molotov then said the Russians might see their way clear to giving up their demand for complete control over Tripolitania, the Italian colony which sits almost astride the British life-line through the Mediterranean. Byrnes expressed real interest and probed what further concessions Molotov had to offer.

The Soviet might even yield on extensive reparations from Italy, Molotov continued, though he added that this would disappoint the Russian people who felt they were entitled to at least $300,000,000 from Italy. Byrnes asked Molotov how far he was willing to go, and got the reply that Russia might drop to $100,000,000. This was confirmed publicly a day or two later.

Byrnes then asked Molotov what suggestions he had to make on Trieste. Here the Soviet foreign minister was brief and explicit. He proposed that the United States and Great Britain agree to give Trieste to Yugoslavia.

—BYRNES COUNTERS—

At this point, Byrnes took his first negative stand. He said that the United States could never agree to handing the predominantly Italian city of Trieste over to Marshal Tito. Instead, he offered two counter-proposals: 1.) A plebiscite whereby the people of the region could decide whether they wanted to live under Italian or Yugoslav rule; 2.) A committee of experts to set up a tentative boundary between Yugoslavia and Italy for one year and then let the general assembly of the United Nations decide the issue under section 14 of the United Nations charter.

Molotov flatly vetoed both proposals. The first, he said, would lead to confusion and possible bloodshed. Regarding the second, he remarked that he knew full well how the British-American-dominated assembly would vote.

Byrnes, however, refused to yield.

This caused Molotov and Vyshinsky to hit the ceiling. They saw red. They charged that the United States had embarked on a new imperialistic chapter in its history. When Byrnes asked what basis there was for such a charge, the two Russians protested that the United States had abandoned its traditional policy of remaining in the Western hemisphere and was trying to get bases in Iceland, France, Portugal, Iran, Turkey and China.

Byrnes emphatically denied this. He said his government was trying to get out of all these countries as fast as it could. He pointed out that in Iceland only 772 Americans were left, mostly plane mechanics and caretakers. And, getting his South Carolina dander up, Byrnes accused the Russians of a vicious, lying propaganda attack.

DRAFT LEFT UP TO VOLUNTEERS

Number Of Eligible Men Left In County Is Small

Delta county draft board officials were instructed Monday by state headquarters to make every effort to fill quotas with single men between the ages of 20 and 25 inclusive, and with volunteers of teen age.

However, there are few, if any, eligible single men in this age group in the county, with the exception of a small number of farmers, local officials report.

Despite the modification in the selective service act, recently extended to July 1, youths are still required to register for the draft when they reach the age of 18. They will not be classified for the time being, however.

FREDDY HOLLERS ABOUT MINNOWS

I was sneaking up on him. Five feet more and I would have pushed him off the dock, into the "drink." But he turned around, saw the look of murder in my eyes and got a hammerlock on me. "I saw you hooking that poor defenseless minnow through the gizzard, Freddy. I'm ashamed of you," I said.

Tightening his hold a little, he said, "You're getting too high hat altogether, Sid, and unless you run a column on minnows for the fellows who fish fly and bait both, overboard you go." The water was wet and the river was wide and deep, so here is the story, but remember, I'm not upholding him one bit.

"I like a No. 3 hook when the white bass are running and I like that good old eagle claw hook, not because it is American made but because it is a good hook and holds the minnow well," said Fred. "I prefer two to three inch minnows for white bass, pan fish and trout but three to four-inch minnows for walleyes and north-erns," he said.

"Hooking your minnow has much to do with making the fish strike, as well as keeping the minnow alive for hours," said Fred. "When I am fishing the river, with a heavy sinker and three or four feet of gut leader below the sinker, they must be hooked differently than for lake fishing."

"A minnow will curl up in the current if you do not hook it through both lips. Another way to allow it to swim naturally is to hook it through the eye sockets, but above the eyeball so it will not puncture. For casting, I run the hook through the mouth, out the gills and then through the sides."

"For ice fishing, the larger the minnow the better, but I hook it just below the dorsal (top) fin and just far enough below the backbone to miss the air bladder which lies along the backbone," he said. "I like a size 3/0 Carlisle hook for it doesn't straighten out with a big fish."

Fred uses this 3/0 size hook for summer fishing for walleyes too and I must admit that his minnows keep alive far longer than most fishermen's. I have seen them swim on a hook for a good half day. I went along merely to get the fresh air and the sunshine, you understand.

On one or two occasions when I have been forced to fish with minnows, my style of hooking them along one side of the body, along the top, or dorsal, fin causes me to lose more fish. Fred's styles of hooking minnows are the results of 40 years of wide rivers and large lakes, except when he fishes trout all summer with flies.

Milk Mixture for Stomach Ulcers

A recent medical discovery now used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven equally successful in the treatment of stomach ulcers caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation yet so effective. In many cases the pain of stomach ulcers disappears almost immediately. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion, heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of LURIN from their drug-gist. LURIN contains this new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoonsful in a half glass of milk. Costs but little. Most satisfy or money refunded.

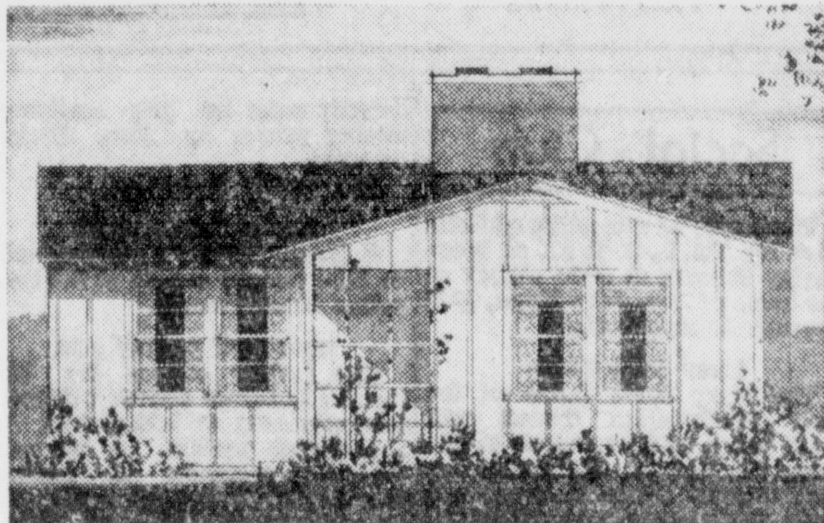

Lurin for sale by City Drug Store and drug stores everywhere.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

AP Newsfeatures
Eliminating basement in a small house plan, this design locates the heater room logically in relation to the fireplace. The laundry is conveniently adjacent to the kitchen and affords a service entrance. The combined dining and living room stretches entirely across the garden side of the house with an outer wall of windows. The American Builder magazine (30 Church St., New York, 7, N. Y.) estimates the cost of this house at about $5,000 not including the land.

DISNEY FIGURES GO ON SWEATERS

Marinette Knitting Firm Starts Production On Unique Garments

Marinette—An idea of two years ago may soon become Marinette's leading industry. Work is being rushed at the Marinette Knitting Mills on production of Walt Disney character sweaters—an exclusive Marinette Mills product in this country.

Two years ago a merchandising man in Chicago, familiar with both Walt Disney Productions and the Marinette Knitting Mills products, suggested the possibility of Marinette Mills making Walt Disney character products.

The idea matured when Marinette Mills was awarded an exclusive contract with Walt Disney Productions for character sweaters. New equipment was needed and the Marinette Mills installed a new machine from Switzerland, a double-lock link and link Dubied Cal machine.

The new machine knits sweaters in four colors, picturing the Walt Disney characters. The sweaters can be made only on this make of machine.

The three characters being made at the present are Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and Pluto, but other characters may be added later.

The three characters are being used on medium-weight juvenile sweaters of the pull-over, round and V-neck design, and cardigans.

The new sweaters are now in production and are expected to be ready for the back-to-school trade. First sweaters will be available on a national distribution on Sept. 8 in stores from Los Angeles to New York. Because of the limited supply, Lauer Brothers of Marinette will have the only sweaters in Michigan or Wisconsin for the present.

Originally a brogue was a light shoe formed of one piece of half-tanned leather gathered around the ankle.

The sandal is the earliest type of shoe known to mankind, with at least 4,000 years of style history behind it.

It is estimated that 65,000,000 lethal objects planted by the German invaders in Russia have been destroyed.

RHEUMATISM

Arthritis-Neuritis-Sciatica
Treated by New Modern Non-Surgical Methods

If you suffer from the agonizing pains of these diseases and have tried dozens of remedies and they all have failed... then learn today about a new, trustworthy treatment method that has helped thousands to new health.

The first principle of this new treatment method is to go directly to the cause of your suffering and start the removal of the poisons from your system. Drugs and medicines that give temporary relief from your aches and pains will not do one bit of good toward relieving the cause of your troubles.

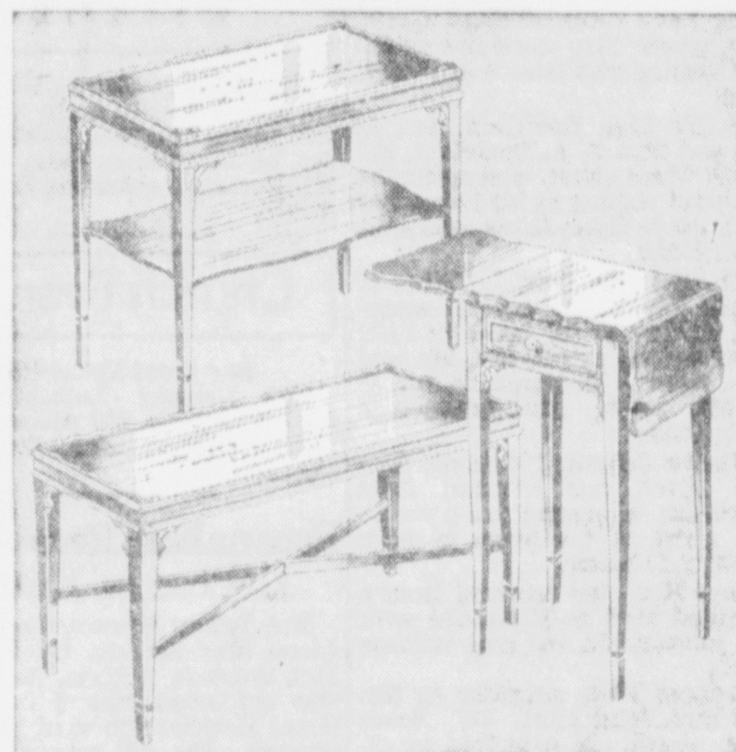

Pain and distress are nature's warnings that something is radically wrong with your system... something if let go may lead to serious complications that may result in permanent injury.

In response to thousands who have written to them about their famous methods of helping chronic sufferers to better health, the Hall Clinic has prepared an AMAZING FREE BOOK entitled "Rheumatism and its Kindred Diseases." This highly informative book tells how for over 20 years this new treatment method has corrected many serious basic conditions and troubles.

It tells how you too may find comforting relief, new health and new outlook on life. There is no obligation. This instructive book may save you years of untold misery. Write today to HALL CLINIC, DEPT. 8615, Excelsior Springs, Mo.

ORE MOVEMENT EXPECTED SOON

End Of Mine Strike May
Start Loadings Here
Within Week

Possibility that iron ore would be loaded from the North Western ore docks in Escanaba soon as a result of negotiations which are bringing an end to the long-continued strike in Upper Peninsula iron mines was foreseen here yesterday.

Lee McMillan, superintendent of the North Western railroad company's ore docks in Escanaba, yesterday was at Iron River in connection with the projected start of shipping here. At Escanaba, T. M. Cassidy, Peninsula division superintendent, said that "there may be some boats in the latter part of the week."

Because of the strike at the mines not one boat has loaded at Escanaba so far this year. One Reiss boat has been at Escanaba several weeks after unloading coal, waiting for a cargo of ore before returning to the lower lakes.

The navigation season usually is opened by ore carriers in April. During the war years ore shipments rose in volume, tapered off as the war drew to a close, and in this first postwar year dropped 92 percent below April of last year because of the mine strikes. Only a couple cargoes of ore were loaded out of Lake Superior ports so far this year.

If ore loadings start at Escanaba this week it will be one of the latest openings of ore shipping in history.

North Western ore docks at Escanaba have been in readiness since early spring, following the annual maintenance and repair work completed during the winter months.

PIKE FISHING IS OPENED IN BAY

Fishermen Now Use All
U. P. Waters; 16 Lbs.
Best Inland Effort

Today is the red letter day for walleye and northern pike fishermen, the opening day of pike fishing on Lakes Michigan and Superior and their connecting waters. For anglers in Delta county it means that they may begin their fishing for walleyes and northern pike in Big and Little Bays de Noc. The season continues through next March 31.

For the brief time since last Wednesday during which inland lake pike fishermen have been able to get a head start on their brethren of the lake waters, Carl Bennett of Gagner's Market seems to have landed the boss fish. Carl boated a 16 pound, 12 ounce northern while fishing Sunday out of Uno Lodge. The fish measured 44 1/2 inches in length. It is the largest fish entered so far in the Daily Press 1946 Contest pike class.

With today's opening the only remaining game fish which are banned from the angler's creel are the largemouth and smallmouth bass, sunfish and bluegills. The season for these species will not open until June 25.

Both walleyes and northern pike must be at least 14 inches in length. From Great Lakes waters fishermen are permitted to take a total of ten pike, not more than five of which may be northern. If the catch is confined to walleyes a total of ten may be taken.

Fishermen on inland waters are limited to five pike in one day—regardless of the species.

Legion Poppy Day Sale On Saturday

Poppy Day will be observed in Escanaba and throughout the nation on Saturday, May 25. Mrs. J. P. Ambeau, president of Cloverland Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, has announced.

Memorial poppies to be worn in honor of the dead of both World Wars will be distributed on the streets throughout the day by volunteer workers from the Auxiliary and cooperating organizations. Contributions received in exchange for the flowers will be used in relief and rehabilitation work for disabled veterans and their families and the families of the dead.

Extensive preparations for Poppy Day are being made by the Legion Auxiliary under the direction of Mrs. E. B. Harvey, poppy chairman. The volunteer workers are being organized into teams and assigned to locations in the downtown area. Residence and factory areas also will be covered to give everyone an opportunity to pay tribute to the war dead by wearing a memorial flower.

The poppies have been ordered from Percy Jones hospital, Battle Creek, Mich., where they are being made by disabled veterans of both wars, working under the direction of the Michigan Department of the Legion Auxiliary. They are crepe paper replicas of the European wild poppy which bloomed on the battlefields of France and Belgium in both wars and which has become a world-wide symbol of remembrance of America's battle dead.

MOVIES, STAGE FACING CRISIS

Must Improve Shows To Hold Audiences In Coming Years

BY ROBERT H. MYERS

Hollywood, May 20.—(AP)—With in another year Broadway's "inflationary" stage patronage boom will fall off, and the caliber of entertainment will improve to meet the test of more critical eyes and ears.

This recession at the legitimate theater box office, and its effect, will be reflected in the nation's film fare, but possibly to less degree. Movie audiences, it may be inferred, aren't so choosy.

Such are the prophecies advanced by a man long identified as a hit tune composer, musical comedy and more recently as a producer of expensive photoplays—a career, oddly enough, that budded during the subject's college days at Columbia and burst into full bloom in 1928.

The man is Arthur Schwartz. He is 45, but looks younger and if you'll pardon a wild comparison, a little like one Julius Caesar.

And while the average theatergoer may be unfamiliar with Mr. Schwartz—or Mr. Caesar, for that matter—many have been humming Arthur's songs for many years. Songs such as "Give Me Something to Remember You By," "How Sweet You Are" and "Dancing in the Dark."

Schwartz, who has centered his talents on the screen front since 1941, producing "Cover Girl" a year or so later and now has the tuneful Cole Porter biography, "Night and Day" awaiting release, said of the impending B. O. let-down:

"The country is entertainment crazy. Anything goes. Shows are packing 'em in on Broadway which in normal times wouldn't last a week."

"But by next year," he said, "conditions will slack down, and it will be up to the producers and writers to raise the standards of their offerings."

Schwartz leaves for New York shortly to ready "Park Avenue," a musical in which he collaborated with Ira Gershwin, for an October opening. Later he may do that theaters were designed for entertainment. And as for plays with a "Message"—

"The 'Message' if there is one, will come second. Too many writers start out with a message and hope it carries the play. It won't."

Schwartz said he would insist on this treatment. Very likely employing his legal training, if need be.

FLORIDA IS BAD
SPOT FOR POLIOState Has More Cases
Of Infantile Paralysis Than Texas

Washington, (SS)—Texans seem to have gotten excited over an increase in infantile paralysis cases but Florida in the spot national health authorities are more inclined to view with concern over signs of an impending outbreak of the disease.

Latest reports to the U. S. Public Health Service here show that for the week ending May 11, Texas had 16 cases of polio while Florida had 17. Since the first of the year, Texas has had 63 cases compared with Florida's 93. That gives Florida almost four times as many cases this year as in 1945, while the Texas figure for the year so far is only nine cases more than the previous year. Texas, like California, has for the past several years had what health authorities call "a good deal of residual polio," meaning that a good many cases occur long after the polio season has elsewhere closed in the fall and before it starts up in the summer.

Clean-up campaigns such as have been started in Texas are not likely to stop an infantile paralysis epidemic, if one is coming, though such campaigns are good in themselves. They have been shown capable of carrying the infantile paralysis virus but there is no valid evidence that they play a part in spreading the disease or causing epidemics. The same is true of insanitary conditions. Infantile paralysis virus has been found in sewage and in bowel discharges of patients, but there is no valid evidence that it spreads, as typhoid fever does, through sewage-contaminated water.

Only 56 cases of infantile paralysis lies in the development of a protective vaccine. Dr. H. E. Van Riper, assistant medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, declared in discussing the situation with me today.

No such vaccine exists at present although scientists are trying to develop one.

Selling Dinosaur Tracks
Developed Into Business

Antiques? How! Carlton Nash sells dinosaur footprints.

BY GRACE O'GARA

South Hadley, Mass. — Many New Englanders deal in antiques, but Carlton Nash undoubtedly deals in the oldest of all.

This South Hadley geologist advertises and sells "dinosaur tracks for moderns"—fossil footprints made by giant reptiles supposed to have died up to 125 million years ago.

He quarries the tracks out of two acres of rock in the nearby foothills of the Mt. Holyoke range. Nash discovered the rich deposit of fossils in 1933 and has been working it since 1939.

He has taken out over 2,000 prints. Some of them still can be seen in the curio room of Nash's 235-year-old homestead. But most have been sold—to collectors and to householders, who use them for ashtrays, doorstops and paperweights and in rock gardens, flagstone walks and the like.

In Nash's three-page catalogue, he prints a photograph of a fireplace with a panel of two tracks on the mantel and remarks, "A fascinating conversation evolves from this idea."

Professor Of Medicine
Is Prof Of Murder Too

BY AL OSTROW

NEA Special Correspondent
San Francisco—Dr. Joseph Catton, clinical professor of medicine at Stanford University, has a unique and profitable avocation—murder.

The suave, distinguished-looking college professor doesn't go around killing people himself, but he specializes in study of quirks in the human mind which produce mayhem, and frequently takes time out from his task of instructing medical students on mental diseases to appear as a professional witness in murder trials.

A stern realist, Dr. Catton generally insists on cash in advance, and about as much as the traffic will bear—before entering a case. He may be retained by either the prosecution or the defense, but he invariably goes to work with an open mind, refusing to commit himself in advance to belief in either the defendant's legal guilt or legal innocence.

His method is to make a complete investigation of the past and present of the person accused of murder, and of the crime they are charged with committing. Through conversations with the accused, their relatives and friends, and scores of people who have had contacts with them, Dr. Catton develops a voluminous "case history."

Pulls No Punches
Then, sitting alone in the privacy of his book-lined study, he sifts the evidence and, with the keen intellect of a skilled psychiatrist, formulates his answer to the crucial question:

Was the defendant legally insane at the moment of murder, and, therefore, legally innocent of the slaying?

Most states recognize insanity as a mitigating defense against a murder charge, and the defense attorney is anxious to either beat down or build up the argument.

Having framed an opinion, Dr. Catton presents it to the side which retained him. He says he pulls no punches and does not permit consideration of where his fee comes from to influence his judgment, since his professional reputation is worth more than any single case.

If his finding is contrary to the theory the attorney who retained him is trying to establish, that sometimes ends his association with the case—although in at least one instance he was summoned as a trial witness by the other side.

Taking the witness stand is no trial for Dr. Catton. Smoothly and glibly, using simple charts and tables for clarification, he conducts the jurors on a guided tour of the labyrinthine intricacies of a human mind and the causative factors of crime.

Cross-examining attorneys always try to trip him up by quoting a reference he once made to his appearance as a prosecution witness in the famous Massie case in Honolulu, when he engaged in a verbal duel with Clarence Darrow, the defense counsel.

Dr. Catton said he had lost a point to Darrow, but had smugged so convincingly at the jurors that they thought he had won.

The professor's customary response to the reference is another pleasant smile to the jury and a candid admission that "it was rather foolish to set down something which at a later trial would take up so much time."

Knows Law, Too
Dr. Catton is a stern foe of the "moment of mania" theory—"the insanity which appears suddenly, remains for a period of time sufficient for the commission of a murder, and then disappears as promptly as it came."

However, being well-versed in jurisprudence as well as psychiatry and medicine, he is quick to detect legal quirks which may benefit an accused, and frequently becomes the chief strategist of a defense battery.

Himself a noted alienist, Dr. Catton does not believe the final determination of a murder defendant's sanity or insanity should be taken from a jury and handed to a board of psychiatrists, although he does think the talemans should carefully weigh expert testimony. There is too much uncertainty in this field for anyone but a jury to reach a final verdict," he says.

Among the famous cases in which Dr. Catton appeared as a professional witness were the trials of Winnie Ruth Judd, William Hickman, and Annie Irene Mansfield. His testimony appears in about 50 other trial records.

Dr. Joseph Catton: For a study of mayhem, cash in advance.

STOCK TRENDS
ARE SLUGGISH

BY VICTOR EUBANK

New York, May 20 (AP)—Steels, motors, rails and special issues pushed up in today's market although many leaders were indifferent and dealings relatively sluggish.

Postponement of the rail strike was helpful to sentiment and revived hope that this controversy, as well as the serious coal situation, soon would be adjudicated their account.

From the start the ticker tape frequently was at a standstill but achieved some activity in the final hour. Transfers of 910,000 shares compared with 980,000 Friday and were the smallest for a full stretch since March 28. Of 927 issues appearing, fewest since April 2, 523 rose and 224 fell. The Associated Press 60-stock average was up 4 of a point at 79.7, best comeback since May 10.

Du Pont, down most of the day, rallied at the finish for a net advance of 5½ points to $215.50 when directors lifted the dividend from $1.25 to $1.75. H. L. Green common, on sales of 800 shares, climbed to $105. Prior was up 4 at $74.50, Philip Morris 2½ at $48.87, American Woolen 2 at $41.61, Curtiss-Wright 1½ at $24.12, International Telephone, second livestock stock, up ¾ at $27.25.

On the losing end were Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, Electric Power & Light, Public Service of N. J., International Nickel, Air Reduction, Eastman Kodak and Standard Oil (N. J.).

PRICES RAGGED

New York, May 20 (AP)—The bond market followed a ragged price line today, with a number of the low-price bonds ahead at the finish.

Prices were sensitive to small orders and changes of as much as 2 points appeared on the tape. Bond fluctuations were fractional, however.

Some dealers rated postponement of the rail strike a favorable factor but with the possibility of another halt in coal production still hanging over the nation, traders showed little eagerness to extend their account.

Closing higher were American Telephone 3½ at 153½, Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville 3½ at 116, Hudson & Manhattan 4½ at 34½ and Denver & Rio Grande Western 4½ at 24.

On the losing side were Southern Pacific 4½ at 104½, Seaboard Airline 4½ at 81, Southern Railway 4½ at 71, Union Pacific 4½ at 71, and Western 4½ at 71.

Long-term U. S. governments headed downward again. Victory Loan Dec. 2½s were priced at 103 1/8-1/2 bid in the over-the-counter market for a loss of 1½ points in the stock exchange was at a standstill.

A number of Latin American issues improved in the stock exchange with $3,400,000 compared with $3,200,000 Friday.

Other side.

Taking the witness stand is no trial for Dr. Catton. Smoothly and glibly, using simple charts and tables for clarification, he conducts the jurors on a guided tour of the labyrinthine intricacies of a human mind and the causative factors of crime.

Cross-examining attorneys always try to trip him up by quoting a reference he once made to his appearance as a prosecution witness in the famous Massie case in Honolulu, when he engaged in a verbal duel with Clarence Darrow, the defense counsel.

Dr. Catton said he had lost a point to Darrow, but had smugged so convincingly at the jurors that they thought he had won.

The professor's customary response to the reference is another pleasant smile to the jury and a candid admission that "it was rather foolish to set down something which at a later trial would take up so much time."

Knows Law, Too
Dr. Catton is a stern foe of the "moment of mania" theory—"the insanity which appears suddenly, remains for a period of time sufficient for the commission of a murder, and then disappears as promptly as it came."

However, being well-versed in jurisprudence as well as psychiatry and medicine, he is quick to detect legal quirks which may benefit an accused, and frequently becomes the chief strategist of a defense battery.

Himself a noted alienist, Dr. Catton does not believe the final determination of a murder defendant's sanity or insanity should be taken from a jury and handed to a board of psychiatrists, although he does think the talemans should carefully weigh expert testimony. There is too much uncertainty in this field for anyone but a jury to reach a final verdict," he says.

Among the famous cases in which Dr. Catton appeared as a professional witness were the trials of Winnie Ruth Judd, William Hickman, and Annie Irene Mansfield. His testimony appears in about 50 other trial records.

AG EXPERTS TO AID RESORTERS

Specialists To Visit
Local Resorts
May 24-25

The Michigan State College Extension service, which has heretofore dealt in agricultural matters, has taken on the job of helping resort owners with their problems and, according to announcement by Joseph L. Heirman, county agent, representatives of the extension service will send a staff of specialists into Schoolcraft county to confer with resort owners concerning matters in which they may be of help.

These men and women are trained to assist in special fields such as landscaping, building of cabins, supplying plans for ground layouts, foods, recreation, etc.

A group of these specialists will be in Schoolcraft county on Friday and Saturday, May 24 and 25 and will visit resorts in the area if requests to do so are made in advance.

These requests for visits may be made either to Maurice Carlson, secretary of the Manistique-Schoolcraft Chamber of Commerce, or to Mr. Heirman, whose office is in the basement of the post office building. Requests, says Mr. Heirman, will be taken care of in the order in which they come.

An evening meeting will be held Friday at 7:30 o'clock at the court house for the benefit of resort owners who may be interested in this service. The meeting, however, is not exclusively for resorters. Anyone who is interested in the upbuilding of this great industry in Schoolcraft county is invited to attend.

141 People Receive Unemployment Pay Here During Week

The Manistique office of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission paid compensation benefits to 141 unemployed people in Schoolcraft county for the week ending May 18, 1946, according to E. Alex Hawkins, chief claims examiner.

This figure includes 110 unemployed veterans paid readjustment allowances and 31 industrial claimants paid from the Michigan Unemployment Compensation trust fund. Included among the industrial claimants were 8 women.

Hawkins said there were 19 who filed initial claims for the week, an increase of one since the previous week. Of this number there were 16 veterans and one woman.

SAW TOKYO DURING WAR

Welfare Worker Gives Interesting Account Of Experiences

In sharp contrast with the general complaint of those who had to endure the privations of Japanese internment camps, is the story of Miss Mildred Paine, settlement worker in Tokyo at the time of the outbreak of the war, who spoke at the Methodist church Sunday evening.

Miss Paine, while in no way contradicting the experience of others, states that she was kindly treated by the Japanese and that but for the ordeal of imprisonment, she fared better than most of the Japanese residents of that city.

The speaker explained that she was in charge of a settlement house maintained in what may be termed the slum district of the city. Here, under the sponsorship of the Methodist church, the enterprise helped relieve the lot of the poverty stricken and the destitute and the work was so effective and so well thought of by the Japanese authorities that when the war was on and most every other missionary effort was subdued, this enterprise was permitted to continue.

Miss Paine was not interned until several months after the Pearl Harbor incident and even after she was taken into custody by the authorities, she was permitted to receive visitors and direct the activities of the settlement.

One of the chief efforts of the settlement was the providing of an extra meal for the children of the poorer classes. The Christianizing effort, was also carried on at all times and at a Christmas party, she said, more than one thousand "rag pickers," as the most poverty stricken people were termed, were entertained and provided with some gift.

The work of the mission at present, said Miss Paine, is devoted primarily to caring for thousands of children made orphans by the war.

Miss Paine was one of the thousands of internees exchanged for Japanese internees held in Europe shortly before the close of the war. In her talk she told graphically of the efforts made to insure the safety of passengers on the Gripsholm which took her to Europe. A huge electrically lighted cross which could be seen for many miles was set up on the ship.

She expects to return shortly to Japan to resume her work at the Tokyo settlement house.

Local Woman Seriously Hurt In Motor Mishap

Mrs. Kathleen Chambers is in a Detroit hospital receiving treatment for injuries sustained in a motor accident near that city May 15, in which her mother, Mrs. Allie Coe of Akron, Ohio, was killed.

Details of the mishap are meager, other than that it happened early in the morning and that three others were killed. Mrs. Coe, it was learned died shortly after arriving at the hospital. The car was driven by Mrs. Chambers.

Mrs. Chambers is the widow of the late Sid Chambers who up to a few months ago, operated the Pie Plate Lunch room on Deer street.

Mrs. Coe had been visiting in Manistique and she and her daughter was returning to Akron by car when the fatal mishap occurred.

COUPLE INJURED IN CAR MISHAP

Mrs. Peter Villeneuve Is Badly Injured; Pair In Hospital

Mrs. Peter Villeneuve is in critical condition and her husband is in fair condition in St. Joseph's hospital in Menominee as the result of injuries sustained Sunday morning when their auto left the highway on the right hand side, then came back onto the pavement, crossed to the other shoulder and down into a creek bottom and up on the other side, where it overturned.

The car is a total wreck.

Mrs. Villeneuve was first believed dead when removed from the wreckage but was found to be alive and was removed to the hospital, where she was placed in an oxygen tent. She has a possible skull fracture and internal injuries.

Mrs. Villeneuve sustained severe cuts and bruises about the head and one knee was injured. He regained consciousness Sunday evening. He told relatives he was traveling about 40 miles per hour at the time and believed something went wrong with the steering mechanism.

Schools again requested channels for broadcasts and were assigned five channels, but all were on high frequencies for which there were but few receiving sets.

However, an invention by a University of Columbia professor has resulted in all new sets of today being able to receive the high frequencies. Old sets can be equipped with an attachment at moderate cost which will allow reception of FM broadcasts.

At present there is a plan under way to establish a network of FM broadcasting and rebroadcasting stations over the state of Michigan. He said cities would be well repaid that interested themselves in the network for it is his belief that FM radio is 100 per cent superior to the regular broadcast and eventually it will supplant our present system.

Tells Of Petrillo Feud And Plans For FM Radio

An interesting account of his battle against Czar Petrillo, national head of the musicians' union, was given by Dr. Joseph Maddy, of the University of Michigan music school, yesterday before the Gladstone Rotary club.

Dr. Maddy also told of frequency modulated radio and how it may eventually supersede the present type of broadcast.

Later in the afternoon he directed the Gladstone high school band, adjudicated the girls' double sextet and spoke about frequency modulated radio before the Gladstone high school student body.

Prof. Maddy said his battle with Petrillo was 20 years old but did not break into the limelight until Petrillo cancelled a school orchestra broadcast from the National Music camp at Interlochen three years ago.

He said it started in Chicago in 1926 when Petrillo, then a minor music union official, insisted that $600 be paid for union standing in musicians before he would allow the broadcast of the 300 piece massed orchestra from 200 schools of thirty states.

Numerous incidents occurred during the years following which culminated with the arbitrary banning of the National Music school broadcast and the National Broadcasting company obeyed Petrillo. A senate investigation followed but it lagged for 20 months and then was closed without even hearing Dr. Maddy describe the fact that he went to Washington and asked to be heard.

Dr. Maddy was then advised that he would be heard but inasmuch as the probe was closed it could not possibly do any good, but accompanied by a reporter from one of the Detroit papers and an attorney he went to Washington and the resultant publicity caused a reopening of the issue.

Congress awakened and anti-Petrillo legislation was drafted and some three years and 9 months after the Interlochen incident an anti-Petrillo bill became law.

Dr. Maddy lauded the press for its attitude during the Maddy-Petrillo battle, saying: "The press stands on its own feet—radio doesn't dare."

Frequency modulated radio is the coming thing for it is static free and interference free, Dr. Maddy said.

Some years ago the schools had a number of channels or wave lengths assigned to them for educational purposes but these were gradually usurped by commercial concerns.

Schools again requested channels for broadcasts and were assigned five channels, but all were on high frequencies for which there were but few receiving sets.

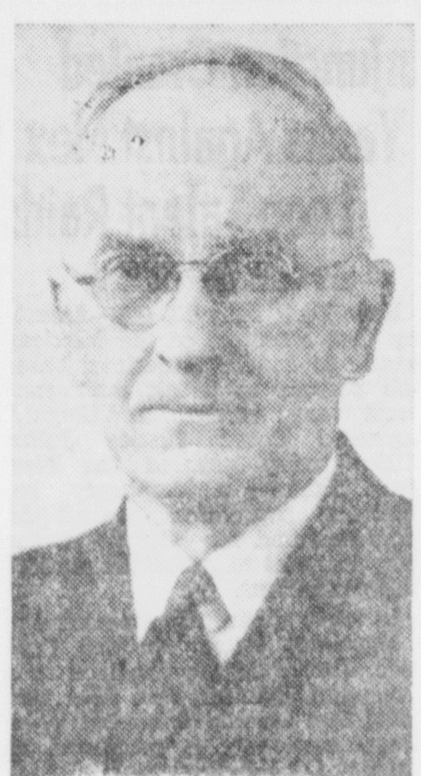

However, an invention by a University of Columbia professor has resulted in all new sets of today being able to receive the high frequencies. Old sets can be equipped with an attachment at moderate cost which will allow reception of FM broadcasts.

At present there is a plan under way to establish a network of FM broadcasting and rebroadcasting stations over the state of Michigan.

He said cities would be well repaid that interested themselves in the network for it is his belief that FM radio is 100 per cent superior to the regular broadcast and eventually it will supplant our present system.

Tom Beaton, delegate of the local club to the Rotary conference, gave his conference report.

AG EXPERTS TO AID RESORTERS

Specialists To Visit Local Resorts May 24-25

The Michigan State College Extension service, which has heretofore dealt in agricultural matters, has taken on the job of helping resort owners with their problems and, according to announcement by Joseph L. Heirman, county agent, representatives of the extension service will send a staff of specialists into Schoolcraft county to confer with resort owners concerning matters in which they may be of help.

These men and women are trained to assist in special fields such as landscaping, building of cabins, supplying plans for ground layouts, foods, recreation, etc.

A group of these specialists will be in Schoolcraft county on Friday and Saturday, May 24 and 25 and will visit resorts in the area if requests to do so are made in advance.

These requests for visits may be made either to Maurice Carlson, secretary of the Manistique-Schoolcraft Chamber of Commerce, or to Mr. Heirman, whose office is in the basement of the post office building. Requests, says Mr. Heirman, will be taken care of in the order in which they come.

An evening meeting will be held Friday at 7:30 o'clock at the court house for the benefit of resort owners who may be interested in this service. The meeting, however, is not exclusively for resorters. Anyone who is interested in the upbuilding of this great industry in Schoolcraft county is invited to attend.

141 People Receive Unemployment Pay Here During Week

The Manistique office of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission paid compensation benefits to 141 unemployed people in Schoolcraft county for the week ending May 18, 1946, according to E. Alex Hawkins, chief claims examiner.

This figure includes 110 unemployed veterans paid readjustment allowances and 31 industrial claimants paid from the Michigan Unemployment Compensation trust fund. Included among the industrial claimants were 8 women.

Hawkins said there were 19 who filed initial claims for the week, an increase of one since the previous week. Of this number there were 16 veterans and one woman.

SAW TOKYO DURING WAR

Welfare Worker Gives Interesting Account Of Experiences

In sharp contrast with the general complaint of those who had to endure the privations of Japanese internment camps, is the story of Miss Mildred Paine, settlement worker in Tokyo at the time of the outbreak of the war, who spoke at the Methodist church Sunday evening.

Miss Paine, while in no way contradicting the experience of others, states that she was kindly treated by the Japanese and that but for the ordeal of imprisonment, she fared better than most of the Japanese residents of that city.

The speaker explained that she was in charge of a settlement house maintained in what may be termed the slum district of the city. Here, under the sponsorship of the Methodist church, the enterprise helped relieve the lot of the poverty stricken and the destitute and the work was so effective and so well thought of by the Japanese authorities that when the war was on and most every other missionary effort was subdued, this enterprise was permitted to continue.

Miss Paine was not interned until several months after the Pearl Harbor incident and even after she was taken into custody by the authorities, she was permitted to receive visitors and direct the activities of the settlement.

One of the chief efforts of the settlement was the providing of an extra meal for the children of the poorer classes. The Christianizing effort, was also carried on at all times and at a Christmas party, she said, more than one thousand "rag pickers," as the most poverty stricken people were termed, were entertained and provided with some gift.

The work of the mission at present, said Miss Paine, is devoted primarily to caring for thousands of children made orphans by the war.

Miss Paine was one of the thousands of internees exchanged for Japanese internees held in Europe shortly before the close of the war. In her talk she told graphically of the efforts made to insure the safety of passengers on the Gripsholm which took her to Europe. A huge electrically lighted cross which could be seen for many miles was set up on the ship.

She expects to return shortly to Japan to resume her work at the Tokyo settlement house.

Local Woman Seriously Hurt In Motor Mishap

Mrs. Kathleen Chambers is in a Detroit hospital receiving treatment for injuries sustained in a motor accident near that city May 15, in which her mother, Mrs. Allie Coe of Akron, Ohio, was killed.

Details of the mishap are meager, other than that it happened early in the morning and that three others were killed. Mrs. Coe, it was learned died shortly after arriving at the hospital. The car was driven by Mrs. Chambers.

Mrs. Chambers is the widow of the late Sid Chambers who up to a few months ago, operated the Pie Plate Lunch room on Deer street.

Mrs. Coe had been visiting in Manistique and she and her daughter were returning to Akron by car when the fatal mishap occurred.

COUPLE INJURED IN CAR MISHAP

Mrs. Peter Villeneuve Is Badly Injured; Pair In Hospital

Mrs. Peter Villeneuve is in critical condition and her husband is in fair condition in St. Joseph's hospital in Menominee as the result of injuries sustained Sunday morning when their auto left the highway and rolled over a short distance north of Menominee.

It was reported yesterday afternoon that Mrs. Villeneuve had little chance of recovery.

The accident happened at 7:20 a. m. Sunday while the couple were enroute to Pound, Wis., to visit a son of Mrs. Villeneuve. About a half mile north of the Menominee city limits the auto left the highway on the right hand side, then came back onto the pavement, crossed to the other shoulder and down into a creek bottom and up on the other side, where it overturned.

The car is a total wreck.

Mrs. Villeneuve was first believed dead when removed from the wreckage but was found to be alive and was removed to the hospital, where she was placed in an oxygen tent. She has a possible skull fracture and internal injuries.

Mr. Villeneuve sustained severe cuts and bruises about the head and one knee was injured. He regained consciousness Sunday evening. He told relatives he was traveling about 40 miles per hour at the time and believed something went wrong with the steering mechanism.

Injunction Granted Yanks Against Mex Loop Talent Raids

BY GAYLE TALBOT
New York, May 20 (AP)—Asserting that attempts of the Mexican league to induce American baseball players to break their contracts were "wrongful and illegal," Supreme Court Justice Julius Miller today granted the New York Yankees a temporary restraining injunction against the Mexicans and set May 28 as the date for trial to make the injunction permanent.

In what apparently amounted to a clean-cut victory for the Yankees, Justice Miller declared in a five-page opinion that "No real proof that organized baseball is an illegal monopoly is submitted on behalf of the defendants."

In a hearing before Justice Miller last week, counsel for the Mexican leaguers blasted player contracts as instruments that held athletes "in peonage for life" and demanded that their legality be placed on trial along with the Yankee suit. Miller at that time indicated he was in tentative agreement with the Mexicans, but the opinion he delivered today just about sent dapper Bernardo Pasquel and his co-defendants to the showers.

"The scant and fragmentary factual statements contained in the affidavit of Hess (Jerome Hess, Mexican league attorney) fall far short of establishing any such monopoly," the justice said.

"Although the affidavit characterizes organized baseball as an illegal monopoly, the facts therein stated at most show that an individual ball player's freedom of contract is restricted and limited."

Even if organized baseball, as claimed by the defendants, be a monopoly, it would seem that it is not a combination in restraint of trade, either under the general business law * * * or at common law.

"Attempts of the defendant to induce plaintiff's players to leave their employment with plaintiff are wrongful and illegal under well-settled principles of law."

PREP BASEBALL IS WASHED OUT

Iron Mountain Game Is Scheduled Now For Next Monday

Baseball, which has run afoul of the weatherman several times this spring, came out second best in another bout here yesterday when rain washed out the scheduled opener of the Eskymos' baseball season at home.

Iron Mountain high school's ball club was booked to play here yesterday afternoon but the game was postponed because of the heavy rain. It will be played next Monday, May 27, at the city diamond at 4:15 o'clock.

The probability of booking two more games for the Eskymos was opened yesterday when negotiations were started with Kingsford. A home and home series may result.

LIST PAIRINGS FOR RING BOUTS

Fine Card Shaping Up For Matches Here Next Monday

Tentative pairings for the Escanaba amateur boxing show Monday, May 27, were announced yesterday by the Lions club boxing committee. The fight show will be presented at the junior high school gymnasium, starting at 8:30 o'clock, central daylight savings time.

Boxers from seven Upper Peninsula communities will be seen in action on the fight card. Cities represented include Escanaba, Gladstone, Sault Ste. Marie, Manistique, Iron Mountain, Norway and Hardwood. The lone Hardwood entry is Henri Beauchamp, a newcomer in the middleweight division, who is paired with Pinky Weber, of Manistique. A single entry also has been received from Iron Mountain, Ronald LaCount, lightweight, who has been matched with Bob Hart, of Gladstone.

The tentative pairings which are subject to possible revision after the lads weigh in Monday, afternoon, follow:

- C. Johnson, Manistique vs. Hinds, Norway.
- C. Weber, Manistique vs. Oberthaler, Norway.
- W. Anderson, Manistique vs. Devine, Norway.

KAYO FOR FOX

Philadelphia, May 20 (AP)—Rallying in the face of defeat, Philadelphia's Billy Fox kept his knockout string intact tonight by belting Ossie (Bulldog) Harris, of Pittsburgh, into dreamland in 57 seconds of the tenth round. It was the 39th consecutive kayo for Fox who hopes to meet Champion Gus Lesnevich in a light heavyweight title match this summer.

The number of schools throughout the United States using buses to transport children number about 45,000.

The use of helium instead of air in the tires of a big plane reduces the plane's weight by about 100 pounds.

Lard production in the United States hit a new high in 1944 when 3,075,000,000 pounds were made.

PHOTO FINISH—They'll be arguing about this one for a long time to come. Jack Schils, Escanaba, was awarded the judge's decision over Wickman, of Menominee, in the half mile Class B race here last Saturday. Schils broke his stride at the finish and fell across the finish line. Mickey McCormick, of the Menominee coaching staff, is providing some vocal encouragement to Wickman. McCormick is on the extreme right.

Escanaba Team Downed By 5-3 Score In NWM League

NWM SCORES SUNDAY
Iron River 5, Escanaba 3.
Iron Kings 7, Crystal Falls 3.
Niagara 5, Channing 3.
Iron Mt. 8, Negaunee 6 (11 innings).

Iron River — The Escanaba Bears lost a 5 to 3 decision to Iron River in a NWM league game Sunday, although they out-hit the Iron River club, 7 to 5. Errors which played a part in the Bears' 3-2 defeat by Crystal Falls in the opener also contributed to the Escanaba team's setback Sunday.

The Bears opened strong, scoring twice, but Iron River evened the count in their half of the first inning. Iron River scored single runs in the second, fifth and seventh. The Bears tallied again in the seventh and had a good chance to even up the battle in the ninth when Dube and Deloria both singled with only one out, but the rally died without a tally.

Beck, Escanaba pitcher who was assigned to the hill as a replacement for Jimmy Fitzpatrick, who is ill, outpitched Guyawski, of Iron River, yielding only five hits and striking out eight. Guyawski gave up seven hits and fanned five.

Next Sunday the Bears will play at Niagara. The Escanaba club is at the bottom of the NWM league standings, the only team that has not yet broken into the victory column.

FORM IN THE HURDLES—Peterson, Escanaba hurdler, showed nice form in winning the low hurdles event at the regional meet here Saturday. He won first place and qualified for the U. P. finals at Houghton. Besson, of Escanaba, who placed second, also qualified for the Houghton meet.

UP AND OVER—Cliff Weir won the pole vault event with a leap of 11 feet, 9 inches after a stout duel with Koskinen of Menominee. Koskinen cleared 11 ft. 6 inches but couldn't negotiate the next level. Weir is shown here sliding up and over the crossbar.

KELTNER GETS ROUND-TRIPPER

Bombers Score All Their Runs On Homer; Tribe Has Late Start

Cleveland, May 20 (AP)—Cleveland beat the New York Yankees at their own game today as Ken Keltner belted his sixth home run of the year in the ninth inning for a 4-3 victory after Nick Etten and Bill Dickey had bashed round trippers to tie the score in their half of the final frame.

All three Yank scores resulted from homers. Etten also had smashed one of Steve Gromek's pitches over the right field barrier in the second inning. Gromek survived a 10-hit attack to register his second decision of the campaign and his sixth straight over New York.

Marius Rusan making his first start since the 1943 World Series, blanked the Tribe for five innings before he retired. Clarence Marshall took over in the sixth and walked Dutch Meyer and gave Pinch-hitter Hank Edwards a single before Jake Wade came in to pass Pinch-hitter Gene Woodling, leading the bases. Manager Lou Boudreau bounced a single off the glove of Al Gettel, the third New York hurler of the inning, scoring Meyer and Mickey Rocco walked to force in a second tally.

New York . . . 010 000 002—3 10 0
Cleveland . . . 000 002 011—4 12 0

SIX RUNS IN SIXTH

Ann Arbor, May 20 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers' second stringers this afternoon turned loose a six-hit attack in the sixth inning to defeat the University of Michigan baseball team 6 to 1, in an exhibition game.

Shortstop Skeeter Webb led off by racing to second when Second Baseman Dominic Tomasi threw wild to first and after Third Baseman Johnny Lipon had been thrown out, third to first, Centerfielder Hoot Evers singled to right field to score Webb.

Left Fielder Dick Wakefield, a graduate of Michigan Coach Ray Fisher's baseball school, followed with a single to center and from then on Lefty Bliss Bowman had more than he could handle on the mound.

First Baseman Roy Cullenbine, Second Baseman Jimmy Bloodworth and Pinch Batter Jimmy Outlaw also singled and Catcher Bob Swift doubled before Relief Hurler Irving (Pro) Boim could check the rally.

Tiger Manager Steve O'Neill started Leftfielder Ted Gray on the mound and the Detroit rookie allowed the Wolverines only one hit, Jack Welschberger's triple in the five innings he pitched. The Wolves left fielder's triple scored Shortstop Don Robinson, who got to first on Lipon's bad throw to Roy Cullenbine, for Michigan's only run.

Hal White, who succeeded Gray, also allowed the Wolverines one hit a scratch single to short

Red Sox Dreaming Of World Series Checks

BY AL VERMEER
NEA Staff Correspondent

New York, (NEA)—It has often been said that running a league-leading club is more worrisome than managing a team in seventh place. Joe Cronin, who has done both during the past nine months, says it isn't so. The square-jawed Irishman is also prepared to testify against the belief that an extended winning streak is a nerve-racking proposition.

"We enjoyed every inning of it," says the generalissimo of the Red Sox' recent 15-game string. "We were sorry to see it end."

That winning spree was like a shot of sulfa to Cronin and his men. They are now convinced Boston can win its first American League championship in 29 years. The Tigers and the potent Yankees can be beaten. This has already been proven, claim the Red Sox, who swept the champion Detroit in three games, took three out of five from New York. The Bostonians are already beginning to dream vague dreams of World Series checks.

Obviously the Red Sox will not maintain their present clip of winning seven out of every eight games. But a look at their roster shows that most of the regulars are in the ideal age group—between 28 and 32. Fellows like that, explains Cronin, are young enough to withstand the exhaustive summer stretch run and old enough not to succumb to jitters. Furthermore, they ought to be a rugged bunch for some years to come.

Cronin claims April 25 will always remain a historic date to his players. On the previous afternoon they were lambasted by the Yankees, 12-5, but they came back to win by an identical score, proving to themselves that they didn't have to walk a back alley to anyone. They won 14 more after that, building a first-place cushion which will come in handy to ward off later attacks by the Yanks, Tigers or other challengers.

Williams' mates insist he would hit .500 if pitchers pitched to him as they do to ordinary hitters. Ted rarely gets a good ball to hit. Most hurlers would just as soon walk him and do away with the risk of an extra-base blow. It is not often that Williams gets more than two official at bats in a game.

The Red Sox are perfectly willing to take Ted Williams' temper along with his explosive bat.

For that bat plays a vital role in their dreams of an October pay-off.

WHITE SOX FALL, 10-2

Chicago, May 20 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox outlived the Washington Senators today but lost 10 to 2, for their tenth loss in the last 12 games.

Dutch Leonard, who beat the Sox six times last season, won his fourth game of the season while the Senators were making ten hits off Edgar Smith, Frank Papish and Ralph Hamner.

Leonard scattered the 11 Sox hits and held them scoreless until the eighth inning when Wright and Platt hit homers.

The Senators scored five of their ten runs in the second and third innings against Smith, with Leonard himself driving in two with a single to center in the second.

PUREBRED DAIRY CATTLE COMING

Expected To Arrive At Fair Grounds Today; 31 In Truckload

The arrival of the first truckload of purebred bulls and heifers at the state fair grounds in Escanaba is expected today, marking the third year start of the highly successful program for the improvement of Upper Peninsula dairy herds.

E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent, said yesterday there would be 31 cattle in the first truckload. All of the shipments will come to Escanaba, and from the fair grounds the cattle will then be consigned to U. P. farmers who have purchased them.

The program under which orders are taken, purebred stock selected, and the distribution made is co-operatively sponsored by the U. P. Development Bureau and Michigan State College. Orders for the cattle are taken by county agents from farmers in their respective counties.

In Delta county there have been eight bulls and eleven heifers ordered, Wenner said. He does not know whether animals to fill Delta county orders are included in today's shipment, and he advised all farmers who had ordered cattle not to call for them until they are notified.

Orders have been placed by county farmers as follows:

For bulls—Antone Leckson of Garden; Penlon Brothers and Hilding Olson and Clarence Sundquist of Ford River; Switch; Emil Moser of Danforth; Albert Watchorn of Isabella; Octave Carrieman and Frank DeGrand of Cornell.

For heifers—William Blake, Escanaba; Route 1; John Whybrow, North Delta; George Larson (2), and Clarence Deitrich of Danforth; Octave Carrieman (2), and John Marcella (4) of Flat Rock.

Obituary

KOESTER L. CHRISTENSEN

Funeral services for Koester L. Christensen, which were largely attended, were held Monday afternoon at two o'clock at the Boyce funeral home with Rev. Otto H. Steen, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating.

Military rites were conducted by members of Cloverland Post 82, American Legion, at the grave in Gardens of Rest cemetery. Color bearers were William E. Miron and C. T. Weir; color guards, C. Elmer Olson and Harry M. Compher. The honor guard was composed of Carl Peterson, Clinton E. Groos, Raymond Charles, Elmer St. Martin, Henry Koehler, Herman Mielke, C. W. Vadnais, Edward J. St. Antoine and W. J. Perron. Chaplain was Archie Wood.

Pallbearers were Roy Jensen, Earl Johnson, Frank Hanson, Wilfred DuPont, Emil Perrow and Walter Olson.

Out of town people who attended the services were: Frank Lindley, Lansing; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Winkley, Loretta, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. David Fitzgerald, Detroit; Frank Rasek, Loretta; Hilton Johnston and Elmer Hultgren, Marquette; Dr. and Mrs. Harvey L. Jorgenson, Marinette; Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Tillman, Gladstone; Mr. and Mrs. Otto Winkel, Cooks; and Mrs. Herman Winkel, Manistiquie.

Nahma

Nahma—Free Methodist services are to be held in the chapel room at the Leon Bingham home in Nahma tonight at 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. A. D. Counterman of Escanaba will be the speaker.

Former Spalding Resident Taken By Death In Detroit

Mrs. Louise Enlaw, a former resident of Spalding and the widow of George Enlaw, who died in August, 1943, passed away Sunday at the home of her daughter, Rita, in Detroit. She had been in ill health for the past several years.

Her daughter is the sole survivor.

The body arrived here at the Boyce funeral home this morning at 3:45 o'clock and was taken to the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Hanon in Spalding. It will lie in state there until Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock when funeral services will be held at St. Francis Xavier church, Spalding, with Rev. Frank A. Seifert officiating. Burial will be made in the family lot in the Spalding cemetery.

TOURIST SCHOOL OPENS TONIGHT

Sessions Will Be Held At Junior High; Quiz Show Finale

Escanaba merchants have contributed a number of fine prizes, which individuals who attend the tourist information school opening here tonight, will have an opportunity to compete for in the quiz show at the close of the five evening program.

Harold Lindsay, former secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and Ray Knudson, U. S. Forest Service, will be the speakers at the opening session this evening at 7:30 o'clock in Room 155 of the junior high school. A skit illustrating the right and wrong techniques in serving tourists will be presented by four Escanaba senior high students, preceding Lindsay's talk on the historical background of the community and Knudson's remarks on the local resort picture today.

On Wednesday evening the tourist information school session will be held at the county courthouse in conjunction with the tourist trade meeting being held there with a staff of specialists from Michigan State College.

The talks by George Grenholm, city recreation director, and Karl J. Hammar, president of the Wolverine Conservation Commission, originally scheduled for Wednesday evening, have been postponed one week and will be held on the following Wednesday evening, May 29.

A film on Upper Peninsula resorts will be shown by Harrison Beach, Blaney Park, at the session Tuesday evening, May 28.

Wind-up of the tourist school will be the quiz show on the evening of June 3, instead of on May 29, as previously announced.

Charles Folio, director of the adult education school here, has arranged the tourist school program and Roy Overpack, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is general chairman.
